Best Practices for Submitting Music:

1. The "One-Sheet": Always include a PDF with a short bio, high-res photo, and links to the music (Spotify/Soundcloud). Never send MP3 files as attachments unless requested.

2. Follow Submission Guidelines: Most stations have a "Contact" or "Work with us" page. If they specify "No unsolicited submissions," try to build a relationship with the DJ of a specific specialty show first.

Target "Specialty Shows": Many stations have a "Local Music" hour on Sunday nights. These are the easiest slots to get into as an independent artist.

US College Radio Directory for Music Submissions

College radio is a primary driver for the "College Radio Airplay" charts and is often the first place new indie, punk, and experimental artists are heard.

Note on Physical vs. Digital: While many stations have moved to digital-only submissions via email, some "tastemaker" stations still prefer physical CDs or Vinyl for their permanent archives.

Best Practices for College Submissions

1. Digital Assets: Send links to WAV or 320kbps MP3s. Do not send expiring links (like WeTransfer). Use Google Drive or Dropbox links that stay active.
2. The "RIYL" Tag: Always include a "Recommended If You Like" (RIYL) list in your subject line or body. (e.g., Subject: New Indie Rock - BandName [RIYL: Tame Impala, Beach House]). This helps MDs quickly categorize your music.
3. Clean vs. Explicit: College stations are governed by FCC rules. You must indicate if a track is "Clean" or "Explicit." If there are "FCC Violations" (curse words), provide a radio-edited version.
4. Tracking: Send your music on a Tuesday or Wednesday. Follow up exactly two weeks later if you haven't heard back.
5. Specialty Shows: Look at the station's schedule. If you play Metal, don't email the general MD; look for the "Metal Director" or the host of the specific Metal show.

Mailing Address Format (General)

If you choose to mail physical copies, use this standard format:

Attn: Music Director [Station Name] [University Name] [Department Address]
[City, State, Zip]

Note: Always verify the current physical mailing address on the station's website before shipping, as university mailrooms can be complex.

Key Contact Abbreviations:

- PD: Program Director (Decides the overall sound of the station).
- MD: Music Director (Primary contact for new tracks and music labels).
- AAA: Adult Album Alternative (The most friendly genre for independent songwriters).
